

Tanzania Safari Cost 2026

Full Price Breakdown, Budget & Travel Tips

Understanding the Tanzania safari cost helps you plan better and avoid surprises. Prices vary depending on travel style, season, accommodation level, and group size. This guide gives a clear and practical breakdown of what to expect in 2026.

Average Cost Per Person Per Day

Safari Type	Price Range (USD/day)	What to Expect
Budget	$200 – $350	Basic camps or lodges, shared or simple setups
Mid-range	$350 – $600	Comfortable lodges and tented camps
Luxury	$600 – $1500+	High-end lodges, premium service, exclusivity

What Affects the Cost?

Accommodation: Budget camps, mid-range lodges, or luxury properties.

Park Fees: Serengeti and Ngorongoro have higher entry fees.

Transport: 4x4 vehicle, fuel, and guide services.

Season: Peak season (June–October) is more expensive. Group Size: Larger groups reduce cost per person.

Example: 5-Day Mid-Range Safari

Accommodation: ~$200–300 per night

Park Fees: ~$300–400 total

Vehicle & Guide: ~$150–250 per day Meals: Usually included

Estimated Total: $1,500 – $2,500 per person

How to Manage Your Safari Budget

Travel in shoulder or low season for better rates

Choose fewer parks to reduce park fees

Share a vehicle (group safari)

Avoid unnecessary domestic flights when possible

Final Note

A Tanzania safari is an investment in experience. The right balance between cost and value depends on your travel style and expectations. With proper planning, you can design a safari that fits your budget without compromising the experience.
